Learn more about NAVFAC ...

 OICC Marine Corps Installation West
In January 2007 the President announced an initiative, referred to as the Surge Force, to increase the end strength in the Army by more than 74,000 by the year 2013 and the Marine Corps by 27,000 by the year 2011. OICC MCWEST is one the Commands stood up to answer that call.

Business Lines	Functional Areas	Support Lines
Asset Management The AM organization allows for CNIC and other supported commands to address lifecycle management with a one-stop shop for real estate, planning, and asset inventory issues. This will enable more robust planning and implementation of critical Navy and DoD issues such as reduction of real property footprint. AM Brochure Capital Improvements Provides a conduit to all business lines, across all departments, throughout NAVFAC Southwest regarding money management for the construction of new structures and the modernization of existing facilities for Navy and Marine Corps' Activities in the western United States. CIBL Brochure Environmental Protects public health and the environment by understanding and reducing the environmental, safety, and health risks and threats from Navy and Marine Corps' facilities. It also implements the technologies and solutions required for solving environmental concerns as well as the management and preservation of endangered species on Navy and Marine Corps' property. EVBL Brochure Public Works Provides comprehensive support in the areas of energy management, utilities acquisition and engineering, utilities privatization, facilities management and specialized facilities systems.
